

Within the Temple of SEKHMET

Within the Temple of Sekhmet is a residential workshop beginning with the re-creation of a Temple of Sekhmet where the daily worship of the Goddess will be carried out. Those attending are required to wear robes all the time as they would have done in Egypt. Sekhmet is the daughter and the warrior of Ra, creator of heaven and earth. As a warrior she is harsh, vengeful and, so legend tells us, was responsible for almost wiping out the human race. But she is also a Goddess of two faces, the second is Hathor the Goddess of love, music, and desire. In this workshop we interact with both and learn to cope with Love and Hate in our own psyche.

All will participate in morning, noon and evening rituals. Rituals and lectures will include The Passing of the Sun's Chariot, The Blessing of the Flame of Ra, The Five Aspects of the Warrior Priest, The Sacredness of Wine & Divine Inebriation, Divine Wrath in Myth and Legend, Sacred Dance of the Priestesses, Sacred Dance of the Warrior Priests, the Sacred pairings of Sekhmet and Ptah, Hathor and Horus.

Please bring the following: A white robe and soft slippers, a golden yellow scarf or piece of soft cloth approx two yards in length and half yard or slightly less in width, a bottle of wine.

MEN bring: A wooden or plastic sword, an oblong shield of stiff card one yard long by half a yard wide. Paint it golden yellow with a border of scarlet around the edge with a sun symbol in the centre, attach two arm bands at the back so it can be held.

LADIES bring: A pottery bowl (about 5" across and 3/4" deep), any drums, sistrums or instruments that blend with the workshop.
